贬到黄州

A traditional Chinese ink wash painting depicting a man with a beard and a straw hat, wearing a long white robe with a brown fur collar, walking through a heavy rainstorm. He is holding a long bamboo staff and is surrounded by bamboo stalks. The background shows a misty landscape with mountains, a body of water, and a small village with traditional Chinese buildings. The rain is depicted as numerous white lines falling diagonally across the scene. The overall mood is one of resilience and determination.
